The South Bank Show

ITV1, 10.45pm

❖ Tasmin Little, one of Britain's pre-eminent violinists, gets the South Bank Show treatment in this inspiring look at her musical career, which she describes as "one steady rise". After entering the Yehudi Menuhin School at the age of eight, Little was a finalist in the 1982 Young Musician of the Year competition and went on to become one of Britain's best-known soloists. Her glittering career now sees her conducting for the first time and focusing her energies on promoting the value of music to all corners of society. This film follows her as she plays in schools, prisons, and even a Scottish power station. If Little is plugging anything, it's simply her guileless passion for music.
